

Madelyn Ho, MD

Madelyn Ho, MD is from Sugar Land, Texas where she began dancing at Kinard Dance School with Shirley McMillan and later trained with BalletForte under the artistic direction of Michael Banigan. She graduated from Harvard College with a B.A. in Chemical and Physical Biology, and while there, performed the works of George Balanchine, Paul Taylor, Martha Graham, Jose Limon, Bob Fosse and David Parsons, and was awarded the inaugural Artist Development Fellowship. She was a member of Taylor 2 from 2008 to 2012 and left to attend Harvard Medical School, during which time she was a guest artist for Alison Cook Beatty Dance and performed with Urbanity Dance. She has been a member of the Paul Taylor Dance Company since 2015, performing Paul Taylor's works nationally and internationally. She has also worked with choreographers Larry Keigwin, Doug Elkins, Lila York, Bryan Arias, Kyle Abraham, Peter Chu, Scott Rink and John Jasperse.